

new program as it is implemented, and pledge to reexamine it should problems of implementation arise.

In closing, I want to thank my colleagues for the spirit of collaboration which led to development of this legislation. In particular, I want to thank Senator DURBIN for his leadership on this issue. While we may not have always agreed on every provision, we did forge a bill on which we can agree. His top-notch staffer, now a distinguished professor, Krista Donahue, worked with us every step of the way.

Senator HARKIN is a steadfast supporter of the dietary supplement industry, and his guidance undoubtedly made this bill a better product. We benefitted greatly from the counsel of his legislative director, Pam Smith, and before her, Peter Reinecke, his former chief of staff. Peter was instrumental in drafting DSHEA as well.

Senator ENZI and Senator KENNEDY, both long-time experts in food and drug law, have both been most generous in their time and in moving the process forward. Chairman ENZI's FDA expert, Amy Muhlberg, helped guide us through this process and was key in our success. Senator KENNEDY's staffer, David Dorsey, once a top FDA, lawyer, was instrumental in the drafting and made countless invaluable suggestions.

I will take this opportunity to thank my own staff—Patti DeLoatche, who always stood for common sense and reason during heated arguments, the elusive Bruce Artim, now a top staffer at Eli Lilly, and of course, Patricia Knight, who helped draft DSHEA with me as well.

Finally, we couldn't have done it without Liz King and Stacey Kern-Scheerer in Legislative Counsel, who patiently produced the 21 drafts leading to the bill today.

I must also note the groups that also support the bill—the Consumer's Union, the Center for Science in the Public Interest, the Consumer Healthcare Products Association, the Natural Products Association, the Council for Responsible Nutrition, the American Herbal Products Association, and finally and most importantly, the Utah Natural Products Association.

That these groups, not often united—at least on this subject—can rally around our bill today is a testament to good policy, good politics, and a surviving bipartisan spirit.

It is my hope the Senate will give swift approval to this bipartisan measure and that the House will shortly thereafter do the same.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, today, the Senate adopted a bipartisan bill that provides the Food and Drug Administration with the tools it needs to help monitor the safety of dietary supplements.

Dietary supplements are safely consumed by millions of Americans every day. I myself take a multivitamin every morning. The vast majority of these supplements do not result in harm to the consumer.

Unfortunately, this is not the case for all supplements. Some cause dangerous health problems: increased blood pressure, heart attack, stroke, seizures and liver failure. Ephedra is the most well-known among these.

Under the Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act, DSHEA, which passed in 1994, supplement manufacturers are not required to prove their products are safe or effective before they are marketed: supplements are assumed safe until proven unsafe.

The bill we passed today will help the FDA identify products that may be causing harm to consumers.

In 2000, the FDA contracted with the Institute of Medicine at the National Academies of Science to develop a scientific framework for the evaluation of dietary supplements under DSHEA.

IOM's proposals flowed from their first and essential recommendation to Congress: Make adverse event reporting mandatory. They asserted that "adverse event reports have considerable strength as potential warning signals of problems requiring attention, making monitoring by the FDA worthwhile."

Unfortunately, under current law, reporting is voluntary and it is not working. The Office of the Inspector General at the Department of Health and Human Services, HHS, estimated in 2001 that less than 1 percent of all adverse events associated with dietary supplements are reported to the FDA.

My own experience reinforces the need for a mandatory system of reporting. Metabolife told the FDA in February of 1999 that, "Metabolife has never been made aware of any adverse health events by consumers of its products. Metabolife has never received a notice from a consumer that any serious adverse health event has occurred because of ingestion of Metabolife 356."

The Justice Department began investigating the truthfulness of that statement and found that Metabolife was holding 16,500 adverse event reports, including almost 2,000 significant cardiac, neurological and psychiatric reports.

The Dietary Supplement and Non-prescription Drug Consumer Protection Act will prevent this scenario from ever happening again. Manufacturers of over-the-counter drugs and dietary supplements will be required to send these reports to the FDA.

I would like to thank Senators HATCH, HARKIN, ENZI and KENNEDY, who have worked with me for the last 3 years on this important issue.

AMENDING THE FARM SECURITY AND RURAL INVESTMENT ACT OF 2002

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. 4093, introduced earlier today by Senator HARKIN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the bill by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 4093) to amend the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 to extend a suspension of limitation on the period for which certain borrowers are eligible for guaranteed assistance.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, today I introduced along with several colleagues legislation that will extend the current waiver of the 15-year term limit on USDA guaranteed loans which will expire on December 31, 2006. Starting January 1, 2007, many producers nationwide will become ineligible for Farm Service Agency, FSA, guaranteed loans. These loan guarantees enable producers to obtain credit to purchase farmland, livestock, feed, seed, farm equipment, and fuel essential to their farming operations. Without the Government guarantee many farmers will be unable to secure operating credit and will be forced out of their livelihood.

The FSA guarantee loan allows lenders to make agricultural credit available to farmers who may not meet the lenders' normal underwriting criteria. Borrowers apply for a guaranteed loan through an agricultural lender who then secures a guarantee from FSA. The guarantee covers up to 95 percent of the loss to the lender of principal and interest on a loan in case of default. Admirably, default rates on these loans are very low at 1.4 percent.

While the 15-year limit on eligibility is intended to graduate producers to commercial credit, we have found that in many cases producers simply are unable to meet lenders' standards without the guarantee. Term limits on guaranteed loans do not adequately take into consideration economic and weather conditions. In recent years, many of America's producers have suffered through high energy costs, droughts and hurricanes. Without this legislation, producers who have suffered through bad years due to these weather and economic conditions will no longer be eligible for loan guarantees they need to continue their operations.

Our bill will extend the term limit waiver until September 30, 2007. This step will help farmers and ranchers nationwide and allow Congress to address term limits on FSA guaranteed loans in the coming farm bill.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be read three times and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, with no intervening action or debate, and that any statements related to the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 4093) was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed, as follows:

S. 4093

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

Section 5102 of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 1949 note; Public Law 107-171) is amended by striking "December 31, 2006" and inserting "September 30, 2007".
